Auto Sign-in No Longer FêteFone turns up the audio.

Forget about greeting guests with the same old guestbook. FêteFone lets guests speak for themselves. Instead of the traditional sign-in book, event planners can go to fetefone.com and select from more than 25 styles of telephones to fit their event décor. Once selected, the phone and the FêteFone hub arrives at the planned event at least two days before. The best part about the design? No telephone line is required. Guests can pick up the phone, hear greetings from hosts and leave messages. At the end, hosts can download the messages as a way to remember a great event. Founder and CEO of FêteFone Michael Radolinski has over 15 years of event planning experience and says that FêteFone is unlike anything on the market.

"FêteFone replaces the traditional guestbook and does triple duty as a piece of statement event décor, guest activity and lasting memory in one," Radolinski says. "Unlike a traditional guestbook, where the written word may not fully convey a guest's personality, or a video confessional, where guests may feel too 'on display' to share their heartfelt wishes, FêteFone offers the perfect balance for capturing event memories." fetefone.com —Noura Elmanssy
